PRICE SI A YEAR.

LAUT BROS.

OWING to the unusually mild winter, we find ourselves with more heating stoves on hand than we wish to carry over until next season, so we are pricing them this week at figures never before offered in Crossfield, that not only mean a real saving to customers, but means that it is ecomomy to purchase a stove now if you have the slightest need for it.

FREE FOOD POLICY AND THE FARMERS

endent Papers View Pro posal With Doubt-Could Not Lower Prices Much

While every Canadian is struggling with his own high cost of living prob lem there is no abounding faith that the removal of all duties off food products would help materially. At best it is viewed as an experiment which might be tried and if found wanting might be fried and it found wanting rejected. There is a feeling, however, that certain food producers might find it a costly experiment and while their interests are not paramount it would be unfair to jeopardize their business without abundant evidence being
